NEWS RELEASE

Last month to get Olympic license plates

You may be admiring them on the car in front of you at the drive-through, but if you'd like to get Utah's Olympic license plates for your vehicle you only have a few more days to make the choice. Olympic Plates are still available from Utah's Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), but after June 30th of this year they will no longer be sold.

For those who ask for the plates until the end of this month, $22 would be added to existing registration costs. Senate Bill 58 set up the fees and time frame for selling Olympic plates through fiscal year 2002, which ends on June 30th. No special fees will be added for renewal of these plates after July 1st of this year.

For more information on license plates, including Utah's 2002 Winter Olympic plate, visit <http://dmv.utah.gov>.
